EASTER PEOPLE

APRIL 2014

CONNECTING - CHANGING - TRANSFORMING

Rector's introduction

Fuelled by hope

The Editor suggested that the subject for Network this month might be 'Easter People.' Why not? I thought, seeing as it is Easter! Easter People, it's a good soubriquet. But what do Easter people look like?

Paul in his wonderful chapter on resurrection, 1 Corinthians 15, writes, 'If Christ has not been raised then our faith is in vain and worthless' (v 14 & 17). He goes on in verse 19 to say that if we have put our hope in Christ for this life only, we should be pitied more than anyone.

Easter people live in triumph. We are not triumphal in the sense of being better or looking down on others, but we know that Christ has overcome death and that we live in Christ.

Easter people are confident. My parents used to tell me not to become overconfident. "You know what pride comes before, don't you?" But our confidence is not in our selves or the trappings around us, but in Christ. We trust in Him. Interestingly a good definition of trust is "confidence rightly placed."

If we are Easter people living under the victory of the cross, the triumph of the resurrection, trusting in the once done work of Christ, it will make all the difference to our relationships, our expectations, and our outlook. It should inspire our witness and motivate our prayer life. Instead of looking at our broken world in despair and our prayer being a litany of woes, the resurrection should fill us with hope. So instead of listing the problems, we pray the solutions for this world that groans, waiting to be liberated from despair.

(That's Paul again in Romans 8)

You see if we are Easter people, we should not only be filled with hope, we should be fuelled by hope this Easter, this day, and every day.

Small Groups update

The Small Group leaders were all commissioned on Sunday 10 March – it's exciting that we now have 17 small groups! If you are not in a small group and want to find out more, then speak to Ruth Haldane or Naomi Lynas, or email naomi-lynas@stjamesclitheroe.co.uk

Easter wreaths for Easter people

One of the best things about Small Group (and all the Small Group Leaders say this) is the opportunity for a good social. At Christmas, my group loves our wreath-making socials. These tend to get put into the calendar back in August. So, when Jo Troughton offered to put on an Easter wreath making evening for us, we were all really excited. There's something very appealing about getting into Jo's kitchen to find a huge variety of flowers and greenery (although this was all fake; real blossom would only last about 5 minutes on a wreath), as well as a beautiful grapevine wreath for our bases.

For the next hour and a half, while we were fed tea and cake, we chatted, twisted wires and hot-glued speckled eggs on to our bases. We talked about hopes, dreams, memories and regrets. We got to know each other just a little bit more. At the end of the evening, we each took home a completely individual wreath, and over the next few days sent photos of them to each other.

There's something beautiful about seeing people come together in a form of church like this. I've seen it as well on a Sunday evening, with various different people coming into church to cook, wash up, or participate in one of our discipleship courses. We're seeing it in the preparation for Without Borders, with a group of worship leaders (who are also a small group) creating something different as a way to engage with God. We're seeing it in the 'fringe' families who are now engaged with Popcorn each month.

A few weeks ago, in our study evening, we were following a study called 'Longing for God to display his Glory.' We looked at Isaiah 48:1-11, and then considered a whole range of other passages, including Psalm 96:1-3 and 1 Corinthians 10:31: 'Whatever you do, do it all for the glory of God.' One of the questions we were asked was, 'How does your church display God's glory every week?'

I believe we see glimpses of God's glory in little moments every day. When we're gathered for an act of worship or gathered together for a small group social. When we're serving each other by washing up after a meal or praying for each other to receive the Holy Spirit. When we're seeing people come to faith or helping someone out of faith. These are all glimpses of God's glory.

I'd say a mark of whether we are Easter People is whether we are doing things for the glory of God. Yes, perhaps some activities display God's glory in more recognizable ways, but, like my small group when faced with the table of materials, through our choices, through our obedience, through our creativity, our relationships and even through our suffering and difficulties, God can use us to show his goodness and greatness here on earth. We all took home different wreaths - it was incredible how different they were - and God will use us all in different ways to display his glory.

Anna Chaplaincy update

The diocese had a great launch of Anna Chaplaincy on 10 March and hopefully we will have our first Anna Chaplain at St James in the autumn! Anna Chaplaincy is a spiritual accompanying ministry for older people both in the church and the community. If you want to find out more about being an Anna Chaplain or an Anna Friend (one of the Anna Chaplain's team) then speak to Ruth Haldane and/or go to the Blackburn Diocese website <https://www.blackburn.anglican.org/annachaplaincy>

On 16 April at 7.30 pm St James is hosting Whalley Deanery Synod. The evening is going to focus on Anna Chaplaincy, and Katherine Froggatt, Anna Chaplaincy Co-ordinator for the diocese, will be speaking and taking questions. It has been decided to make this an open meeting due to the interest in Anna Chaplaincy – so here is your opportunity to find out more!

Thanks from Sara Marriott

It would be remiss of me to start this reflection without a huge word of thanks for making me feel so welcome and included in the church family. I am especially grateful to all those who gracefully answered my barrage of questions, those answers helped me to piece together a comprehensive picture of the shape of church life at St James.

The one consistent message that came out of all my conversations was that everyone felt that they had a unique and very personal relationship with God, creatively demonstrated through a range of different ministries. The comment “I serve God with my Black and Decker” should be available on a T-shirt!

What is clearly in evidence is how much each of these ministries, in whatever form, are valued and nurtured within the church community. St James’ strives to empower people, to discern and encourage the use of gifts and talents for the benefit of the church and the community it serves. A real-life example of Romans 12 in action.

Coming from a tradition that relies on liturgy and the Lectionary to shape its worship, I was intrigued to see how the themes and solemnity of Lent would be expressed at St James. It was fascinating to see how worship music and prayer ministry was used to reflect this season of the Church year.

There have been some elements that I have personally missed, particularly confession, absolution, and the Creed. For me, the active participation in confession is an important part of worship. The Lutheran Pastor, Nadia Bolz Weber declares that it is in our brokenness where we witness God's grace in all its fullness, and the act of being absolved of my own brokenness never fails to elicit an emotional response. Likewise, being able to stand and declare in community the beliefs set down in the Creed; not only reinforcing that it is by the grace and mercy of God that we have come to faith but also embracing that connection to the Church across the ages.

I cannot leave without mentioning Lucy and the Youth team, who have taken me under their wings, and given me the opportunity to experience youth ministry at its best. The love and time given to each young person, whether a church goer or not, epitomises what it means to have a servant's heart. I will not miss being responsible for the tuck shop and having to do maths under pressure (thank goodness for Tiaan) but I will miss the hilarious debriefs.

God Bless you all.

Looking forward

What a term we have had in the youth ministry. It's been such a great time watching the young people who come on a Wednesday evening and Sunday morning really start to take hold of their faith. Our Wednesday youth gathering is now more of a youth congregation than a youth cell group due to the number of young people who attend, and it's such a blessing to hear them worship together and see them pray together and for each other.

Our outreach youth ministry is also continuing to grow. I now spend time with almost 200 young people each week through schools work and church based youth activities who don't attend our Wednesday evening or Sunday morning groups. It's fantastic to have such opportunity to get to know them and speak life into them.

Coming up...

The youth are looking forward to attending the Diocesan yearly youth event - Abide - on the 27th April. This is always such a great event with worship, teaching, workshops and plenty of fun. We still have a few spaces on the coach for any young people who haven't signed up but want to come.

We are also busy preparing and planning for Satellites Camp in the summer. As usual we will be asking for support for the trip to help young people go who otherwise would not be able to finance the trip, and our usual snack bags and of course lots of prayer!

On the horizon...

We are aiming to expand our Friday evening team to include a team of detached youth leaders who will go into the castle park on a Friday evening to talk to young people in the park. This is part of the youth outreach. If you would be interested, please get in touch with me. Training will be provided and we plan on starting in September.

Needs...

We are still in need of more youth team members: weekly on a Wednesday or Friday evening, weekly in our schools work, and monthly on a Sunday morning. Get in touch if this is something you would like to find out more about.

Finally...

Thank you so much for your continued prayer and support. The youth team have the absolute privilege of walking with the young people and leading them to Jesus, but only because of God being in it and you joining in through prayer and financial giving.

Lucy Skelton, Youth Minister

Helen's work in schools

It was such a privilege in March to be involved in the prayer spaces run at St James' Primary School by Helen, our Children's Minister, Suzie and Meg from The Grand, and various volunteers. Children from across the school engaged in many different ways with the Easter story.

On such occasions, I'm always amazed and impressed to see Helen in action. She is so good with the kids, valuing and encouraging each one, and she seems to know them all by name! It's fantastic that she has established such a good relationship with both pupils and staff.

Freedom in Christ

Between January and March, it's been so great to see many people engaging with our Sunday evening discipleship courses: Alpha, DNA, Freedom in Christ and the youth prayer course. The courses were preceded by a shared meal in the Oasis Room, and we have been so grateful to everyone who cooked food or helped with serving and washing up. You are stars!

We will be gathering feedback from each course, but here are two testimonies from the Freedom in Christ course.

Learning to challenge lies and believe God's truth

Why did I do it?

Because everyone said it was the best course ever and they got loads from it. So, I went just hoping to further develop my knowledge and to get to meet others within the Church.

What did I hope to achieve?

I went with no expectations; I trusted the recommendations from others and the fact that Mark also publicly advocated it. To be honest, I hadn't a clue what it was about!

How the course impacted me

You get out what you put in, so I threw myself in, despite not realising the commitment required and the emotions that would be stirred. Yes, at times it was emotionally exhausting, but it was also very enjoyable, fun and therapeutic. I found the short videos very informative and thought provoking; and the small group discussions were held in a gentle and non-threatening way.

Throughout the course I learned that I had accepted many lies about myself and how easy it was to be able to eradicate them. Obviously, it is not a quick fix for some lies, but the course outlined strategies and tools to work on them. So moving forwards, I will continue to challenge these untruths on a daily basis.

My light bulb moment was realising the disparity between the world's view of me and God's view. As children of God, we are all accepted, secure and significant ... and let no one else tell you any different!!

Following the sessions, I have felt some past burdens lifted from my shoulders and a greater inner peace about certain aspects of my life.

I will also miss eating a meal and sharing time with others! In summary, give the course a go, I would add to the recommendations given.

Ian Ballantyne

I am secure in God's love

I have been a Christian for many years, but my Christian life fluctuated and at times I felt there was a barrier between me and Christ. I would struggle to focus on quiet times, my mind would be forever distracted during sermons (sorry to all those who spend so much time preparing these!) and so I often gave into these distractions.

By doing the Freedom in Christ course, I came to realise that many often-throwaway comments had impacted me and my beliefs about myself. For years I was told I couldn't keep a secret (untrue), that I could do better if I worked harder, I was too skinny (as a child, not now!) etc etc and so these lies burrowed deep. I developed low levels of anxiety and frequently worried about having said the wrong thing to someone or making a mistake or about my physical appearance.

The Freedom in Christ course showed me that I no longer need to feel that I am not good enough, that I have to earn God's acceptance or that I am insignificant to God. I am secure in his love, I am acceptable to him just as I am, and I matter (am significant) to him.

The process is very gentle and you are never under any pressure to perform and it is totally up to you how much you choose to share.

CAP Update

CAP Sunday is coming!

On Sunday 14th April, we will have the chance to find out about, get involved with, and celebrate all that CAP is as a charity nationally as well as locally.

During both the 09:15 and the 11:15 services, CAP will be sharing client stories, what it's like to volunteer, and a few money management techniques, along with times of worship.

We will have a guest speaker, Rachel Arnold, from CAP head office who will also be sharing inspiring stories and moments of faith.

Four reasons for debt and how we can tackle them.

Everything is so expensive these days, so it's easy for many of us to find ourselves in unmanageable debt. By recognising the causes of debt, we can gain a better understanding of the problem, prevent it and deal with it.

1. Low incomes

At Christians Against Poverty (CAP) we offer free, face-to-face debt advice and budgeting help. One of the main reasons our clients fall into debt is living on a low income. A lower regular income means less wiggle room to cope with rising costs.

We often don't realise what benefit support we could be entitled to. The free Turn2us benefits calculator on CAP's website at capuk.org/calculator is helping thousands of people to see if they are missing out on any vital income. Why not give it a try?

2. Unexpected circumstances

We've all had days where it feels like everything is going wrong and unexpected circumstances can have a massive impact on our finances. It could be that you've been made redundant, are going through a relationship breakdown, or a loved one has passed away, resulting in less household income. These types of situations can cause us both emotional and financial pain.

If you find yourself in debt that's unmanageable, the moneyhelper.org.uk website has a range of free support and you can find out what free services CAP is running in your local area at capuk.org/help.

3. Physical and mental health struggles

Many of us will have heard the phrase 'health is wealth', meaning your health is always the most important thing. I think most of us would agree this is true. It's also true that long-term illnesses or injuries that happen to us or a close family member can have a huge impact on our household's finances.

Being kind to yourself, seeking professional, medical help early and readjusting your budget as quickly as you can following any changes to your regular income can be really helpful. This will give you a clearer picture of where your finances are at and help you make productive decisions.

4. In need of budgeting support

Budgeting and learning to save are essential life skills, but many of us have never been taught how to manage our finances and avoid debt. When things go wrong, not having this vital knowledge can make it a lot harder to deal with situations that impact our income.

Building up a savings buffer of around three to six months of your monthly income can bring you peace of mind. Even if you think you know how to budget and save, it's always great to learn new skills. Consider taking part in free money coaching to grow your knowledge. You can access free budgeting resources and find out more at capuk.org/budgeting.

The next Money Coaching sessions at St James' are available throughout June. Please have a look on the CAP section of the St James' website for more information and a link to book on to the sessions. Or please contact Matt on the details below.

What's your next step?

Big actions are going to be required to address the ongoing climate crisis, but even small actions we can each take will make a difference. In Network over forthcoming months, we aim to feature small steps that we can take at both individual or household and church level to help sustain the world that God has created.

Celebrating Easter

If you are going to be buying Easter eggs as gifts this year, why not buy the Fairtrade products available locally. All Lidl's Easter chocolate is Fairtrade. There are also other suppliers locally, including The Shop of Hope.

Soft plastics recycling

Ribble Valley Borough Council collects plastics number 1, 2 and 5 through our recycling bins, but not soft plastics such as carrier bags.

But now most of the local supermarkets have collection points where you can deposit these. So why not hang up a plastic bag near your kitchen bin(s), and store soft plastics such as carrier bags, crisp packets, salad bags and bread bags till your weekly shopping trip?

Carbon audit

As a church, we are going to be using various assessment and audit tools to review and address our energy use as we work to move towards a Carbon Net Zero target by 2030.
